FIZ AutoDoc is the INTERNET SERVICE for fast provision of full-text literature in electronic or print form.

This online system offers you centralized ordering, delivery, billing, and helpdesk services as well as the option to directly access the electronic full-texts of specialist publications provided by publishers and agencies in the Internet.

How does FIZ AutoDoc function?

First, the system verifies the bibliographic data of the order. It then searches the appropriate document supplier and simultaneously checks if the requested document is available electronically. If yes, linkage to the relevant publisher is automatically established. You now have the choice to access the article of interest on the basis of a subscription or to have the publication mailed via the document delivery service to your e-mail or to your fax- or post address. If you opt for the print version, your order will be automatically forwarded to the relevant document supplier who will then send you the publication in the requested format. An invoice made out by FIZ Karlsruhe will be sent to you on a monthly basis. It covers all documents delivered during this period and includes statistics.

For not readily available publications, FIZ Karlsruhe provides an option for manual processing of the order. Apart from journal articles and patents you are also offered the possibility to order books, reports, conference proceedings and other grey literature via FIZ AutoDoc.
